DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-11, 12-18, 27-28 are drawn to cellular telephone network comprising peripheral branches and a central data trunking region using a synchronous data communication protocol and having a satellite interface for a satellite connection using a non-synchronous data communication protocol, classified in class 455, subclass 427.
- II. Claims 19-21 and 22 drawn to a hub and interface relating to E1 to TCP/IP networks classified in class 370, subclass 401.
- III. Claims 23-26 drawn to a method of managing e1-based telephone networks, classified in class 370, subclass 356.
- IV. Claims 31-34, and 35-36 are drawn to E1 and TCP/IP networks and conversion between the two, classified in class 370, subclass 329.
- V. Claims 29 are drawn to the use of synchronization for preserving E1 – TCP/IP protocol conversion for allowing satellite to Internet backbone links with mobile telephone networks, classified in class 455, subclass 13.2.
- VI. Claim 30 is drawn to TCP/IP packets carrying SS#7 data payload having packet headers with timing information for reconstruction of an E1 stream, classified in 709, subclass 219.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as all the particulars of a specialized hub versus the particulars of E1 to TCP/IP conversion. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I, III, V, and VI are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because claim 1 contains the overall cellular network with the branches and central data trunking and all the particulars of the overall system. The subcombination has separate utility such as particulars of synchronization, packet headers with timing information for reconstruction, and specialized qualities of E1 to TCP/IP data converters.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for each of Groups II-VI is not required for Group I, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Attorney Sol Sheinbein on 9/23/04 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
